Complete Text of Henry A. Fuller's Splendid Speech Nominating Ex-Senator Williams.

CONGRESSMAN HINES PLAYED

Luzerne's Little Misrepresentative Is Impaled on the Sharp Prongs of Mr. Fuller's Oratory.—The Day of the Congressional Socialists, Anarchists and Tramps Is Past—Merit and Not Gab the True Test of a Man's Worth.

Special to the Scranton Tribune.

WILKES-BARRE, Aug. 19. ELDOM has a county convention so electrified with oratory of a genuine stamp as was that which, in Luzerne's hall, recently listened to the speech of H. A. Fuller, of this city, placing in nomination for congress the name of ex-Senator Morgan B. Williams. Mr. Fuller, upon this occasion, failed to see his candidate successful, but succeeded in winning unanimous admiration as a convention orator. The TRIBUNE is glad to be able to present the full text of his address, as a piece of campaign literature deserving to be preserved.

Mr. Fuller said: Fellow Republicans! Comrades in the noble enterprise of restoring to the country that prosperity which it enjoyed with us in power, and lost when we went out of office, we are gathered here today to elect a representative to the United States Congress. I shall not abuse it, for I shall use it to name the next representative from the Twelfth Congressional district of Pennsylvania; and that is a matter of big consequence for us all, if we did but know it, and appreciate the fact. In our contemplation of the present misrepresentative let us not delude ourselves with the belief that it is of small concern. The constitution of the United States, an ancient document to which we may occasionally refer with respect, even in the heat and turmoil of our modern politics, after a preamble which declares its purpose to promote the general welfare, proceeds straightway in its very first article to establish and define the powers of the representatives. Before the president, before the senate, before the supreme court; above them all, before them all, more vital than all the rest, first and foremost, the house of representatives! That is where it comes in, and I beg to remind you that it is a body of men, of very recent vintage in this particular, who are to be elected here today. Our fathers did it, and we may profit much by the occasional reflection that our fathers were quite worthy of their sons.

THEY KNOW THEIR BUSINESS. I am still old fashioned enough to believe that George Washington and Benjamin Franklin and Robert Morris and Aaron Burr and Alexander Hamilton and the rest were smart men and knew what they were doing when they wrote that constitution, to put in first the house of representatives. They did not put the curfew in the house, nor the tail before the dog; they built upon the foundation of all stable government direct popular representation which comes straight from the people under direct responsibility to the people. When the chances of political fortune have combined to make chief magistrate such a man as is the present incumbent, we are naturally reminded that little we can rely upon the president. When the club upon congress has become a mere club of millionaires whose members rest on their laurels, and whose members are personally not politicians, more degenerate than the English house of lords, as sunk as that even Don Cameron in his civil conduct appears comparatively respectable, we discover our own little house of commons upon the scene, one time the nation's pride, now a bitter pill for patriots to swallow, almost sugar-coated, the federal judiciary, with no better a long run than the president or the senate to whom it owes appointment, as late accessories to the supreme bench demonstration.

Neither president, senators, nor judges come directly from the people. But thank God, and thank our fathers, the representatives do have a way in that, we have that job, and if we say in earnest and if we mean it, I know well and you will in spite of president, senators or judges, that government of the people, by the people and for the people shall remain the earth. Just because we did not base it, but the 17th day of October, 1787, it is not representative, not misrepresentative in congress today. The incumbent calls himself our representative. I call him our misrepresentative. Some may say we want a man who has that house stood for 50,000 people and made laws for 5,000,000 people; now he stands for 200,000 people and makes laws for 7,000,000. Mathematically it would seem that 200,000 people ought to have a better representative than 50,000 people, and that the man who stands for 200,000 ought to be at least four times as good as the man who stood for 50,000. But historically and actually the reverse is true in geometrical inverse ratio. As the constituency has increased the representative has decreased, until now he is a pigmy and the vulgar fraction 1-200,000 correctly indicates his microscopic character. Mentally, morally and physically unable to represent a sense of his own importance, he is just one himself. I presume at first he honestly expected and intended to represent the whole 200,000, for he does not in advance habitually underestimate his own capability; but when he found the job beyond his strength he wisely disengaged himself of 199,999 and clung to what was left—and he will get left next fall.

POLITICAL APPENDICITIS

Medicine men have recently discovered a little thing in the human body called the vermiform appendix, the rudiment of a former bowel, now absolutely useless, and very dangerous when it becomes swollen with a sense of its own importance and tries once more to be a bowel. The unfortunate creature who possesses such an appendix is verminous, and now this congressional appendix gets what is called appendicitis, and is quite apt to die. Not long ago this senatorial district was affected with appendicitis, and called to its relief a surgeon who cut out the vermiform appendix, and now this congressional district, being smitten with the same disease, calls aloud for that same surgeon to cut off that same vermiform appendix. He can do it, for he has done it once; he will do it if you say the word.

Fellow citizens of the Twelfth Congressional district, what do we want and whom do we want in this emergency? Some may say we want a man who has the gift of gab, an orator—the glib tongue and more glib conscience, whose eloquence can cover a large multitude of sins, make wrong seem right, make worse appear the better reason. Kentucky is now struggling with the problem whether it wants an orator. We do not want an orator; the country does not making known their refusal the so-called that they would pay the expenses of a competent United States army officer to review the report of the judges who presided at the drill.

If, after having done so, he decided that the plot was a mere farce, he would be entitled to the trophy, which would be given up to the trophy, thereupon the Messrs. Devine and Lavan withdrew.

MINOR LOCAL NOTES.

Companies C and H, who have been enjoying the duties of camp life for past week, returned home early yesterday morning.

Superintendent Gibson, of the Pitts hospital, on Saturday received a letter from Robert Mareur, of Wilkes-Barre, tendering thanks for the kind treatment he received while a patient in the hospital, and enclosing a subscription of $25.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Ferrin, (neé Ellithorp) of Philadelphia, are visiting Mrs. Ferrin's parents, who are summering at Lake Carey.

Miss Minnie Kyte left Saturday morning for Ocean Grove, N. J., where George Symington has returned from his European trip much improved in health.

Mrs. Libbie F. Clausen, of Middletown, N. Y., is visiting Mrs. I. N. Cathers.

Miss Elsie Cressley, of Philadelphia, is visiting with Miss Netta Lloyd, on Park street, West Pittston.

Howard DuFrain and family left Saturday for East Mauch Chunk, to spend a brief vacation.

J. W. Wheel, C. K. Trumbower, Ed. Hughes and A. H. Stroff, all of this place, composed a whirling party that will leave this week on their bicycles for Washington, D. C. They go by way of Danville, Harrisburg and Gettysburg, and expect to make the trip in about four days. Returning they will pass through Baltimore, Wilmington and Philadelphia. Altogether they expect to be absent about two weeks.

Misses Katie McHale and Maggie McHale, of Pine street, have gone to Jersey City to spend a few weeks with friends.

Miss Nina Hall and Miss Winona Gaudart, of Wilkes-Barre, are visiting their aunt, Mrs. Jay King, of Parnassus street.

Colliers Nos. 6, 10, 14, Eden and Barnum, of the Pennsylvania Coal company, will work this week, and all others will be idle.

M. W. Morris, who was a delegate from the Father Mathew Total Abstinence society, of this place, to the National Catholic Total Abstinence Union of America, recently held at St. Paul, Minn., made a report of his trip to the society at a meeting of the latter held yesterday. The report was full of interest for those concerned, and the most pleasing part of it was that the trip did not cost the society one cent.

Mr. Morris absolutely refusing to accept his expenses. In refusing Mr. Morris informed the society that the pleasure he derived was worth double the expense. The report was received by Mr. Morris yesterday a vote of thanks.

The vacating of the seats of Councilmen Kearney, Tighe and Hennigan will not do the means of causing considerable turmoil at the meeting to be held this evening. That they will make an attempt to occupy their chairs in the common council chamber at the meeting to be held this evening there is no question, and if they are refused to sit in session it is understood a legal battle will follow in the courts.

The many friends of Mrs. Eliza Holmes, known in the literary world as Veronica Cos Holmes, poetess, will be pained to learn that she is lying very ill with gastritis at her home in West Pittston. Her condition on Saturday was such that it was thought she would not survive the day. Her physicians have given up all hope of her recovery.

Late Hamilton, of Binghamton, arrived here Saturday evening to spend a short visit with his parents on North Main street.

M. E. Barber and S. S. Sexton, two expert pave promoters of Canton, O., arrived here Saturday. They are here for the purpose of interesting the council in the question of their pavement.

John E. Roche, of Scranton, spent a few hours here Saturday on business. Emily, the 18-month-old child of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Futral, died Saturday evening. The funeral will occur tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The funeral of Elizabeth Tighe, who was brought here from Philadelphia for burial, occurred Saturday afternoon and was largely attended. Interment was made in Market street cemetery.

Mrs. D. Goodman, of William street, is visiting friends in Scranton. N. J. Maurice K. of Chambersburg, is visiting his sister, Mrs. Dr. J. J. Walsh, of William street.

Miss Lacey, of Exeter street, has returned from a 4-day trip in Michigan.

Frank Seymour, formerly of this place, now a resident of New York city, has been spending the past few days in town.

Mrs. Aaron Holden and daughter, Miss Helen, are visiting relatives in Northumberland county.

Mrs. Streng and children, of William street, are visiting relatives in Berwick.

Miss Bab Moran, of William street, spent Sunday among friends in Wilkes-Barre.

REMARKED BY R. C. Joiner, of Allen P. O., Hazleton, Pa. "Nothing gave my rheumatism such quick relief as Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil—believe it infallible for rheumatism."

Dr. William Peters and James F. Donnelly, of Philadelphia, are here for a few days.

Mrs. S. H. Newhart, of Scranton, is visiting Mrs. Frank Barber, on Main street.

Miss Emma Cress, of Bethlehem, is in town, the guest of Mrs. J. L. Rhodes.

Mrs. Baldwin, of Montclair, and Miss Swanney, of Jersey City, are with Mrs. L. L. Bunnell for August.

Mayor Peterburgh, of East Stroudsburg, and wife, Miss Eliza Peterburgh, and Dr. H. Boas, lately returned from gay Atlantic City.

Miss May and Kate Powell, of Scranton, are the guests of R. Powell and wife, of McDonnell street.

Peter Paul, of Ashley, is enjoying himself among relatives here.

Hallstead.

Last Thursday evening when Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Adair returned from their choir practices at the Railroad Young Men's Christian association, they were surprised beyond measure to find their house completely filled with friends, who had gained entrance in some unknown manner and who greeted them with triumphant laughter. Before the host and hostess had recovered from their astonishment Rev. Davis, in a few complimentary remarks, presented the secretary and his wife with making known their refusal the so-called that they would pay the expenses of a competent United States army officer to review the report of the judges who presided at the drill.

a beautiful cough. Mr. Adair made a brief response. Rev. L. W. Church then made a short and witty speech, and after cordial handshakes the jolly party departed fully pleased that they had given a real surprise.

Mrs. Theodore Hays visited Scranton on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Hays are visiting friends at Spring Lake.

Carbondale.

This is Carbondale's greatest season. It is stated that over 40,000 persons have visited this resort this year up to the present time than up to the same time last season.

The Misses Heasler, of Honesdale, are guests of Miss Amy Klueback, of Carbondale.

A foot race which caused no little excitement took place in this city on Saturday morning. The race was from this city to Crystal Lake and back, a distance of two miles. The starting place was at Thomas Carrett's store on Fairbrook street, and at 5 o'clock the following pedestrians took the departure amid the cheers of numerous friends: Patrick Brennan, of Pike street; John Flannery, of Brooklyn street; and Thomas Carden, of Dandaff street. Notwithstanding the early hour at which the race took place the spectators who witnessed the event numbered up into the hundreds, and many horse back riders were out. In thirty-one minutes after the start was made Patrick Brennan touched the hotel at Crystal Lake and started home. The race was but a few minutes behind, but it was apparent that Mr. Brennan would be the winner. The men arrived at the starting place in the following order: Brennan, 1 hour, 14 minutes; Flannery, 1 hour, 17 minutes; Carden, 1 hour, 21 minutes; Crane, 1 hour, 25 minutes; McNulty, 1 hour, 29 minutes. Each of the contestants put in $10, making a purse of $50, $40 went to the winner and $10 to the second.
